The Call says it would not be a laughing matter to the Hawaiian Government if the deposed Queen should marry a Japanese Prince who could train the Mikado's eye on the islands.

A matter of importance which should have the attention of the legislature early in the session is the revision of the jury law. When the existing one was made there was a strong feeling against the government and the officials felt that it was impossible to get a conviction unless the jurors had taken the oath to support the government. We cannot believe that men who swear to render a verdict according to the evidence would be any more honest because of being supporters of the government. Nor do we believe the number of acquittals would be increased by the fact that the evidence was sifted by men who had not seen fit to take the required oath. The law reflects upon the probity of the men who, under another form of government, were considered eligible to decide the guilt or innocence of a man upon the evidence presented.

But aside from this the present law inflicts a hardship upon the men who are considered sufficiently honest to serve as good men and true. Under the old order of things citizens who were in a panel for two successive terms were excused for two years; now, we understand some of these men have served for four terms with no signs of a vacation ahead of them. The percentage of convictions under the present law is not greater than under the old one, and we fail to see why it should be if the cases are decided on the evidence and the prosecution fails to introduce the required testimony.

"Let annexation come and men will adjust their affairs to suit conditions," said a prominent military man this morning, "and if people cannot make a living here with annexation let them go to the United States or Africa or some place where they can."

But what about sugar and rice?

"Let it go; let everything go that cannot exist with Hawaii a part of the United States. We must have stability, and we cannot get it with this present government."

In other words we are to let everything go so that we may sit under the banyan and hear the flapping of the wings of the American eagle. Never mind our industries; let them droop; the clatter of the machinist's hammer does not furnish half the music as the American eagle could in one single squawk. The policy of our military friend is on the plan of the survival of the fittest, and the men who have built up our industries and who, by their generosity, made the city a beauty spot, are to go unless they can stand adversity. It's a very pretty theory to ponder over, but in practice just now it is impracticable. In the conditions and then make another bid for annexation. People argue that with annexation there would be such an influx of people that our population would double in a short time. So it would, and a large proportion of the new arrivals would be of a class that could not pay their personal taxes at the end of the year. This is not a farming country and our soil is suited only for certain products: let it be developed by those who are here and the country will be better off, a thousand times, even with a few years of a government that is not considered stable, than to kill our mainstay for the sake of becoming American citizens. Hawaii has never had to maintain a "poor house," but with annexation at this time it would be one of the items for consideration in the appropriation bill.

The Latest Silver Craze.

It has come to pass that a collection of silver all in the shape of spoons is no longer thought as interesting as a collection of silver made up of many quaint and curious things having different shapes and uses or no use at all. The curio silver table of latest fashion has sometimes a silver lamp of exquisite shape, picture frames of silver, bonbon boxes, odd spoons, a piece of embroidery heavy with gold and silver threads, filigree silver from Venice and pretty things made from silver in all parts of the world. Such is a collection that is not easily called together, and its owner values it accordingly.—New York Post.

Having used Chamberlain's Cough Remedy in my family and found it to be a first-class article, I take pleasure in recommending it to my friends. J. V. FOSTER, Westport, Cal. For sale by all dealers. Benson, Smith & Co., Agents for Hawaiian Islands.

Business Talks

May 29, 1895.

If the business in any one line was controlled by one individual, what would be the result? If there was a demand for his wares he would be richer than Croesus at the end of a year and you would have to pay through the nose for what you bought of him. In the United States competition has brought the price of necessities down to a stage where people may have them and not be looked upon as extravagant. If you will look around among our stock you will find that it is made up largely of articles for which you have every day use. We have luxuries as well, but, to-day we tell you of things needful about the house. Agate ware for instance!

There's been a scarcity in Coffee Biggins in town, but we have a stock of them That will interest everyone.

We get our goods in agate ware from La Lance and Grosjean, the makers, and they have the reputation of making the best goods in their particular lines in the United States. We can get "seconds" from them, but the first quality is the best because the enamel will not chip off.

Water coolers, handsomely painted outside and enamel lined inside, Small ones for a family or large ones for a foundry.

Japanned ware includes cake tins, trays, crumb pans, cuspidors and lots of other things. The prettiest and probably the most useful article in the lot is a toilet stand, very neat as to decorations and complete as to detail in the matter of articles that go with them.

The one that will strike your fancy Has a water tank that will Hold sufficient water for the day.

The price of these articles is not in proportion to the value of the goods. You get more for your money than you are used to, but then—competition has fixed that in the United States—we buy cheap and follow the same rule in selling. you understand the Golden Rule.

Retained Glue Pots and Slop Bowls Are a new thing with us: Bright and pretty, like a silver dollar.

And you can get them at a price that will amaze you. You should have one of these because they are useful and serviceable.

This is a fish-eating community because the fish are fresh and of an exquisite flavor. All people do not know how to cook them so as to get the substance.

With one of our Agate Steamers you Can steam or boil your fish And not lose the flavor.

These fish kettles vary in size from the mullet to the ulua, and the price goes according to the size.

Farmers' Boilers are not used in every household, but there is scarcely a plantation on the islands but what requires one; they are not to be found in every store in the city, but we have a few of them to accommodate the people who want them.

Among other useful articles let us call your attention to agate and tin basting spoons, tea and coffee caddies, egg poachers, chopping bowls, dish pans, dairy pans and wooden potato slicers.

What is better with your chop In the morning than a few Saratoga Chips? You can get them By using one of these slicers.

Our stock is complete in detail—nothing old or shop-worn.

WHOA!

Just a minute. We want you to know about the famous

BOYCE TABLET LINIMENT.

The many favorable testimonials received from Horsemen both in the United States, and in Europe concerning Boyce Tablets, encourage us, in preparing for the coming season, to make every effort to bring Boyce Tablets to the notice of everyone who is interested in horses. A few of these testimonials will suffice to show the reputation Boyce Tablets have obtained for themselves throughout the country.

To Horsemen who have not yet used Boyce Tablets, we would say that these tablets represent the solid ingredients of a most valuable Liquid Liniment prepared by combining the medicinal agents, recognized by the Veterinary Medical Profession to be the most effective in reducing fever, strengthening stimulating and imparting elasticity to the muscles and tendons; in purifying healing, and softening the skin; and in keeping the hair bright and silky.

It will readily be seen that this liniment in dry form has the following advantages over any other liniments.

1. Its great economy.
2. It requires much less space to carry it.
3. It is much lighter in weight.
4. It is free from danger of leaking, breaking, freezing or wasting.
5. Its ready solubility in either warm or cold water enables the Horseman to prepare his liniment in any quantity and of strength in a few moments time.

In addition to the ingredients most popularly considered by Horsemen as valuable constituents of Veterinary Liniment, we may say that, a Boyce Tablet contains more Genuine Witch Hazel than is in a quart of the liquid extract;

Eucalyptus, or Extract of the fever tree of South America, and Sal-Lister, whose valuable properties as an Anti-septic, Anizymotic and Prophylactic, are accepted and acknowledged by all medical practitioners, also form a part of Boyce Tablets.
